

SAILORS' REVOLT IN BERLIN BECOMES SERIOUS; INFANTRY ORGANIZATIONS GOING OVER

Nearly 100 Killed in Street Fighting Tuesday, Dispatches Say.

GOVERNMENT IN DANGER

Constantly Growing Strength of Spartacus Movement Among Sailors and Soldiers May Spell Speedy Doom of the Ebert-Hass Regime in Germany.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 26.—The Alexander and Franzer regiments have openly joined the revolting sailors in Berlin and it is predicted in advices sent from Berlin late Christmas night that nearly the entire Berlin garrison will support them, leaving the government without troops.

These advices were transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen. They add that large numbers of sailors are reported to be coming from Kiel to join their comrades in Berlin.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Nearly 100 persons were killed in the street fighting which began in Berlin on Tuesday morning, according to the latest reports from the German capital, transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen. The Republican guards tried several times to take the royal stables and the headquarters of the revolting sailors but were repulsed.

Many soldiers belonging to the Berlin guard and a few of the Republican guard joined the sailors. Vorwärts reports:

When these reports were sent large numbers of armed civilians were continuing to join the sailors not only at the royal stables but in the Kronenstrasse. This street, with all its houses, was reported in the hands of the sailors who were supported by the Spartacists. They demanded that Premier Ebert and Secretary Maase resign and be replaced by George Jeddour and Dr. Karl Liebknecht. Dr. Liebknecht, the advices add, went to the chancellor's palace and had a long conference with the ministers, the result of which was unknown.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The mutinous sailors who had been holding out in the Red palace at Berlin have hoisted the white flag and have been allowed to leave under guard, according to advices from Berlin, sent by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam. Government troops, the message adds, now occupy the palace and the royal stables.

BERLIN, Wednesday, Dec. 25.—Telephonic communication between Berlin and Danzig have been interrupted since Tuesday evening. Attempts to communicate with the Baltic port by way of Posen have failed.

Danzig was occupied last week by Polish forces from France under command of General Haller.

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—Political leaders in Berlin were disposed today to believe that the Ebert-Hass government was no longer intact as the result of the happenings of Tuesday. The Independent Socialists held that Premier Ebert was responsible for the predicament into which the government was forced. They declare that their representatives in the government were not aware that he had called on the troops in Potsdam under Lieutenant General Lequis to oppose the sailors with armed force.

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Dec. 26.—President and Mrs. Wilson were in Buckingham palace this afternoon after a journey from Calais to London during which they were accorded all the honors ever given royalty. Never has a royal progress, except those of great national ceremonies, excited such interest here as the first state visit of an American executive.

The President's trip to London was carried out according to schedule. His train, which left Dover at 12:33 o'clock, arrived at Charing Cross station on time.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN ENROUTE TO CALAIS, Dec. 26.—President Wilson left Charenton for England late yesterday afternoon, feeling more strongly than ever the magnificent part American soldiers took in the winning of the war. Yesterday's review in which 10,000 American soldiers marched before him created a deep impression on the President.

When addressing his troops as "fellow countrymen" he told them that he believed that he could "promise them a happy New Year." This was considered the keynote of the address and friends about Mr. Wilson construed his words to mean that he was beginning to see the way more clearly toward the attainment of the objectives he has set for himself at the peace conference.

CONNELLVILLE LEADS IN NUMBER SENT TO ARMY

Sixty More Drafted From This District Than From Uniontown.

NOT ALL FROM THE CITY

Surrounding Boroughs and Townships Contributed Their Quotas; Grand Total Here 1,079 as Compared With Uniontown's 1,019; Many Exempt.

According to statistics received from the seven selective service boards in Fayette county one man in nine registered entered the military service through the operation of the draft. Registration of men between 18 and 45 years reached 46,818. The records show that 5,076 entered the service.

Local Board No. 2, Connellsville, sent the most men, its territory embracing Connellsville, South Connellsville, Emerson, Dawson and some nearby townships. Its inductions exceeded those of Uniontown by 60. The Connellsville district sent a proportionately larger number of men into the service than any other district in the county. As against one in eight from Uniontown, Connellsville has a record of one in six. Including volunteers this district, it is estimated, contributed one in four or five for the service.

The statistical table shows the following registrations and inductions:

District	Reg.	Ind.
First District	6,178	1,019
Second District	6,825	1,079
Third District	7,496	883
Fourth District	6,094	430
Fifth District	5,326	633
Sixth District	7,326	594
Seventh District	5,773	378

Registration of aliens cut down the number of available in fourth, sixth and seventh districts and consequently made the total numbers of inductions in those districts smaller than in the districts drawing mainly from an American population. The foreign element was most dominant in the seventh district where but 378 men were sent to camp from a total registration of 5,773.

SPECTACULAR MURDER TODAY AT MASONTOWN

Negro Fires Four Shots Into Another of His Race at Rustlet Corner in the Town.

Three months ago James Norris, 39, colored, short and slightly wounded Henry Williams, 45, also colored, in a fight at Gray's Landing. "I'll get even later," Williams is said to have vowed. At 12:45 o'clock this afternoon, in spectacular manner, in Main street, Masontown, Williams made good the vow.

Williams was standing in front of the New Mason hotel when he saw Norris start across the street, away from the hotel. Following his victim to the middle of the street, Williams drew a revolver and opened fire. At the first shot, which struck Norris in the back, he fell to the ground. He started to run, but was caught after him firing two more shots, both taking effect. Norris ran on a few feet and fell over the curb on the sidewalk in front of the hotel. A crowd gathered, a bullet through his heart.

A little girl, not realizing what was transpiring, walked between the two men and several bullets whizzed by her but none struck her. A man rushed out and dragged her to safety. Apparently not in fear of being hit the crowd followed after the fleeing man.

When Norris fell Williams threw off his overcoat and ran. He disappeared around a corner. A posse of 100 or more persons followed him to his home at Gray's Landing, where he barricaded himself.

VETERANS OF WAR SERVICE ABROAD ARRIVE AT HOME

Joseph Wrote, Who Was With Marines in Marne Drive, Comes Unannounced.

COMPANY D BOYS, TOO

Carl Kriner and Bernard Wandel Are Members of That Command Here on Furloughs; Corporal Joseph W. Easton Has Reached New York.

Christmas cheer came to a number of Connellsville homes in the form of members who had been in the service overseas or was of their arrival at home ports. It is expected that additional arrivals will be recorded shortly.

The best Christmas gift received at the home of John Wrote in Vine street yesterday was the arrival home early in the morning of Joseph Wrote, a son, who has been in the service with the Marine Corps. His coming was unannounced, none of the family knowing that he was even in the United States.

Arriving home a few days ago Wrote got a furlough over Christmas and arrived here about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. He was in the battle of the Marne with the Marines and during the engagement was shot through the left arm near the elbow.

The last that had been heard from him was when he was in a hospital in France. At that time his wound was healing nicely. He had not hinted at an early arrival home, however.

Carl Kriner, a member of Company D, 110th Infantry, arrived home Tuesday morning and expects to take up employment at the West Penn power house. Kriner was gassed but has completely recovered.

Corporal Joseph W. Easton, Jr., member of Co. D, who was severely wounded in action, arrived in New York Christmas or the day before, according to telegrams received by his father, Joseph W. Easton of Trevor street. One message said he arrived Christmas, the other said Tuesday. Corporal Easton was struck in the hip and leg, suffering compound fractures. He had been in a hospital for a long time and is not yet entirely recovered. He will probably be home in a few days.

An injury to his foot which resulted in an abscess forming in the ankle, kept Sergeant Bernard C. Wandel of Company D, 110th Infantry, out of the fighting with his command. Held in a hospital at Camp Hancock when the remainder of the company left for overseas, Sergeant Wandel was sent across later but not in time to get into the conflict. He is now home again on a furlough, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wandel of the West Side, following which he will return to a hospital in New York. Sergeant Wandel arrived Tuesday evening. He denied reports that he had been gassed. The accident he suffered was last April.

John T. Wurtz, of the 110th Supply Company, is in New York. Wurtz arrived yesterday and called up R. A. Neville to inform him of the fact. Thus reports that "T" had gone west are effectually disposed of.

Dull was carried out and Rev. Wilson Nelson gave a talk on "The Christmas Lesson." Illustrated by stereoscopic views. WOUNDED 75 TIMES, DUNBAR SOLDIER IS HERE TO TELL OF IT

Furthermore Dominick Ciamacco Will Probably Fully Recover.

ALL HIS COMRADES KILLED

Young Italian Leading Patrol into No Man's Land When Machine Guns Got Range; Lopes a Hand; Grafting of Skin Saves Badly Mangled Leg.

To Dominick Ciamacco, a young Italian of Dunbar, belongs the distinction of surviving 75 wounds sustained in action. He is now at his home and, save for the loss of a hand and a badly scarred leg, is not much worse for an encounter with the Boche in which every one with him was killed.

The action took place on July 6, according to the story of Dominick, who is a brother of Peter Ciamacco, manager of the store of the Central Supply company at Dunbar. The young Italian was delegated to lead a patrol into No Man's Land. Everything went well until the patrol was spotted by the enemy and machine guns got to work. Ciamacco was picked up barely alive. His clothing was riddled. The right arm was shattered so that it later necessary to amputate the hand. One side of a leg was almost completely denuded of skin and grafting was resorted to as a means of saving it.

For several weeks the young man hovered between life and death with the chances favoring his "going West" but he finally fully recovered. He was a member of Company K, 325th Infantry.

Trades & Labor Council Has Proof at Hand to Support Its Protest.

HIGH PRICES FOR PORK

To be Called to Investigator's Attention, the Margin Between Prices Paid Farmers and Charged Consumers Being as Great as on Milk Prices.

The investigation of the milk price situation in Connellsville is to proceed as arranged by the State Food Administration. As previously noted in these columns, N. S. Grubbs, county agriculturalist of Allegheny county, has been selected by Dr. Clyde L. King, Federal Milk Commissioner for Pennsylvania, to make the investigation. Notice was received here last evening that Investigator Grubbs will be in Connellsville on Saturday to proceed with the inquiry.

Neither in Dr. King's notice of a selection of an investigator, nor in the notice of the latter in fixing the time of making the investigation, is there any intimation given of the scope or character of the inquiry. It is presumed, however, that this will be determined by the extent and character of the information that will be presented in support of the protest that has been filed with the Food Administration, and by the facts the milk distributors may themselves furnish in justification for the price at which milk has been sold.

The Central Trades & Labor council of Connellsville, which filed a formal protest against the price of 18 cents, which the distributors reduced to 15 cents pending the outcome of the investigation, has been collecting evidence to establish the justness of the claim that a price of 18 cents was out of proportion to the wholesale price paid to milk producers. Speaking of this information a member of the council said this morning:

"We have proof to show that in the spring, when milk was retailing at 15 cents per quart, the distributors were paying farmers only 22 cents per gallon. Later the farmers forced the price up to 25 cents and in the fall, when the retail price went to 18 cents per quart, the farmers refused to sell at less than 32 cents, although some dairymen offered but 30 cents per gallon. At 30 cents has any dealer paid the farmers more than 32 cents per gallon?"

"While the milk investigation is on we intend to call the attention of the investigator to the retail prices consumers are obliged to pay for pork bought locally by the meat dealers of the city. Farmers in the country districts about Connellsville are butchering their hogs at this season and bringing them into the city. As a rule they are being paid 24 cents per pound, although in some cases where the sellers who are able to drive a better bargain, 25 cents is being paid. Between these wholesale prices and present retail prices of 50 and 55 cents there is just about as unfair a margin of profit as between 32 cents a gallon for milk at wholesale and 18 cents a quart retail. We mean to find out what the Food Administration thinks about it and what is proposed to be done."

Forerunners of Spring Styles in Blouses

The first of the new blouses, the advance guard and forerunners of spring styles, are appearing over the horizon of the apparel world. They are here because January is not far off and these fashionables, who turn their backs upon winter and journey south when its chilling cold arrives demand them. Some of these new styles will establish themselves and become fashionable, others will perish of neglect, and some may be shot to pieces by adverse criticism.

It is not difficult to select those that are sure to survive. Among them there are dainty, hand-made lingerie blouses of fine cottons, with needlework and lace decorations. Always welcomed by the fastidious stay-at-homes, who take advantage of January white sales and long winter evenings to do much work for themselves, they are come with assurance of success. There are both high necked and open throat models among them and they are prettier than ever—or they seem so—new lingerie blouses always do.

The two blouses shown above are of crepe georgette. This lovely, fragile-looking material proves to be as durable as cotton and as practical, because it is washable. At the right the model is made of georgette in a dark color and is extended below the waistline at the back and front. It has a striking decoration in colored silk embroidery which a notable feature appears in groups of five small overlapping disks at each side that, whether intentionally or not, simulate medals. The neck is typical of the mode of today which is plain or almost plain. In this blouse there is a narrow collar which does not extend across the front.

The other blouse is in a light color with tucks at the front and a wide, turned-back collar. There are bend motifs on this. The sleeves have plain band cuffs and little buttons ornament them.

Julius Bonnelly

Blouses and Collars

Fichus are used on many dinner dresses and a number of black satin dresses are made with white georgette crepe or chiffon aprons. Many of the blouses are long and some are draped around the hips and tied at one side. Many of them are very long, with tucks which are almost as long as the undershirt, and cut just above the front, except for a vest in front. Very high collars, which are worn doubled over about the throat, have never been more in vogue; they are sometimes worn turned back on the shoulders like a cape.

A Snubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for coughs, colds, and croup.

There is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up snubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, yet very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing, influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easy, and a good night's restful sleep. The throat and chest code are conquered in 24 hours or less. Write for letter for ingredients. Reasonable price for whooping cough, bronchial asthma, or other coughs.

To make this wonderful cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 cups of pure white pine oil into a bottle with a stopper. Add 1/2 cup of sugar and shake the mixture. If you prefer, use refined molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar. Filter the mixture and add a full pint of water. Supply of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for this time. The money keeps perfectly and children love its pine and sugar taste.

Next is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, chosen the world over for its prompt and effect upon the membranes.

A READJUSTMENT OF RAILROAD RATES MAY BE EXPECTED SHORTLY

Within the Coming Year, is the Assurance Given by Director General McAdoo.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Readjustment of freight and passenger revenue rates put into effect by the Railroad Administration since its establishment may be expected as traffic conditions are restored to a peace-time basis, it was stated in official circles today. This view is shared by Director General McAdoo, who has the impression that a reduction of the rates may be accomplished within the next calendar year.

The reduction it was pointed out will come largely through improvements that are made in the transportation service, the elimination of expensive operating features, and economies in the use of terminals. The government has more than a 50 per cent reduction of rates will be accomplished by the time the war period.

The operation of the roads by the government is a new thing, and it is not as easy as it was at first. The government is not as much as for the purpose of making them self-sustaining, and at the same time giving service as near cost as possible.

Which Would You Do?

If you lent a man a gun so that he could shoot a murderer who was about to kill you all—and then refused to let him take a piece of linen to bind his wounds when the fight was over and the outlaw vanquished—

What would he think of you?

What Would You Think of Yourself?

Are you doing that very thing now?

You are if you were willing to support our army and navy while they fought for you, but turn aside and spend your money for other things now. You are doing just exactly that. There are thousands of things as necessary—more necessary—for our men today than the bandage for the defender we were supposing.

For one thing there is the matter of bringing them home, of feeding them until they get home, of literal binding of their wounds and helping to rehabilitate the disabled, by supplying artificial limbs, of doing all that modern surgery can do for them, and countless other needs—all of which take money.

Would you stop with furnishing the revolver because you were afraid that otherwise the murderer would get you? Or would you help to bind the wound gained in your defense?

CHRISTMAS SLUMP IN PRODUCTION MAY NOT BE AS BAD AS FEARED

Depends Largely on Kind of Weather Following the Lay-Off Day.

A SHORTER OBSERVANCE

Of Holidays Becoming More of a Custom Than Formerly; One of the Results of War-Time Campaign of Education; Production Guns Shuttled.

From the Weekly Courier
There are indications that the slump in coke production incident to the observance of the Christmas holidays will be rather less pronounced than the furnacemen are anticipating. The history of operations during the past serves to show that while the workers insist upon taking respite from their labors on the regular holidays and others that come between, there is less and less disposition to make the lay off as prolonged as was the custom in earlier years. Then, there is a growing tendency upon the part of many workers, to give more efficient service. This is one of the encouraging results of the campaign of education during the war when every effort was made to speed up production.

Again, and has been before observed, the state of the weather following the Christmas holidays has an effect upon the number of men who are counted to take but one day's vacation. If fair a larger number of employees can be counted upon to be on the job the next day. If stormy and disagreeable, especially for outdoor work the number of idle men can just as certainly be expected to be very much increased. It is by giving weight to these facts which experience has proven to be fairly reliable guides that the tonnage output this week is expected to be proportionately as good as that of recent preceding weeks.

Last year the region was in the grip of old fashioned Christmas weather and suffering from transportation troubles. Hence production dropped 40,000 tons from 291,000 in 24,000 tons. This year the region is well supplied with cars and they are being handled without the delay, resulting from excessive cold weather. Unless conditions change very materially between now and the end of the week the output should not be decreased by any more than that represented by one day's operation.

Comparatively little is being heard of the influenza epidemic. Some cases are reported here and there but generally speaking it seems to have about run its course insofar as it has affected coke workers. This fact and the continued prevalence of good weather has made possible a further increase in coke production. The gain having been approximately 4500 tons to a total of 288,000 tons. The shortening of the coal war, and a shortage of cars at mine, served by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad resulted in a recession in coal tonnage but reducing coke to its coal equivalent the aggregate output of the region is within 700 tons of that of the preceding week.

The region is yet without an official announcement concerning the length of the year to be granted the Fuel Administration. It is known that it will function until February in relation to coal prices, but this extension is understood not to include coke prices. A rumor prevalent to the well founded is that such extension of coke price control has been decided upon in Washington but confirmation of it is lacking at this time.

Estimated production of coke for the week ending Saturday, December 21 was 288,505 tons distributed between the districts in the proportion of 149,339 from the Conneltsville and 139,175 from the Lower Conneltsville gains of 2350 and 2190 tons respectively or a total gain of 4540 tons. By interests the production was Furnace 150,625 tons; merchant, 132,880 tons gains of 2450 and 2090 tons respectively.

DAMAGES RECOVERABLE

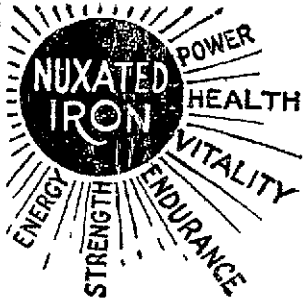

When Railroad Refuses to Permit Loading of Coal From Warehouses.
Refusal of the Pennsylvania Railroad company to permit the loading of coal into cars from warehouses is declared by the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission in deciding the case of McPhilly & McPhilly, trading as the Franking Coal Mining company of Brisban Clearfield county to have been unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory and the company is ordered to pay damages amounting to $500.

The commission however finds that the claim of the mining company that the railroad by failure to deliver cars prevented opening of a new seam of coal is not well founded and that the failure of the railroad to construct a siding was cause for damages aggregating $18,000. It is found that at all times the company was willing to construct siding upon payment of the cost by the complainants and that the complainants did not show a likelihood of paying the cost or give security therefor.

HEADED FOR BERLIN

The colored men of the district have shown a fine spirit, said Commissioner Brownlow at the Washington. "Nearly all have gone to camp with enthusiasm and rare good humor. Some weeks ago I was at Union station's watching a bunch of colored men. They were having a jolly time most of them poking their heads out of the windows to wave good-bye to the boys on the platform. A red cap at the depot recognized a friend who had his head out of the window. The station man rushed up to the drifter and saluted him.

"Where you gwine Sam? he said, to Camp Meade?"
"No I ain't gwine to Camp Meade," came the reply. "I'm gwine to Berlin. I ain't bothered 'bout dem way stations."—Washington Post.

COMEDY FOR BASEBALL FANS

President of San Francisco Would Hire Nick Altrock and Others to Amuse Spectators.

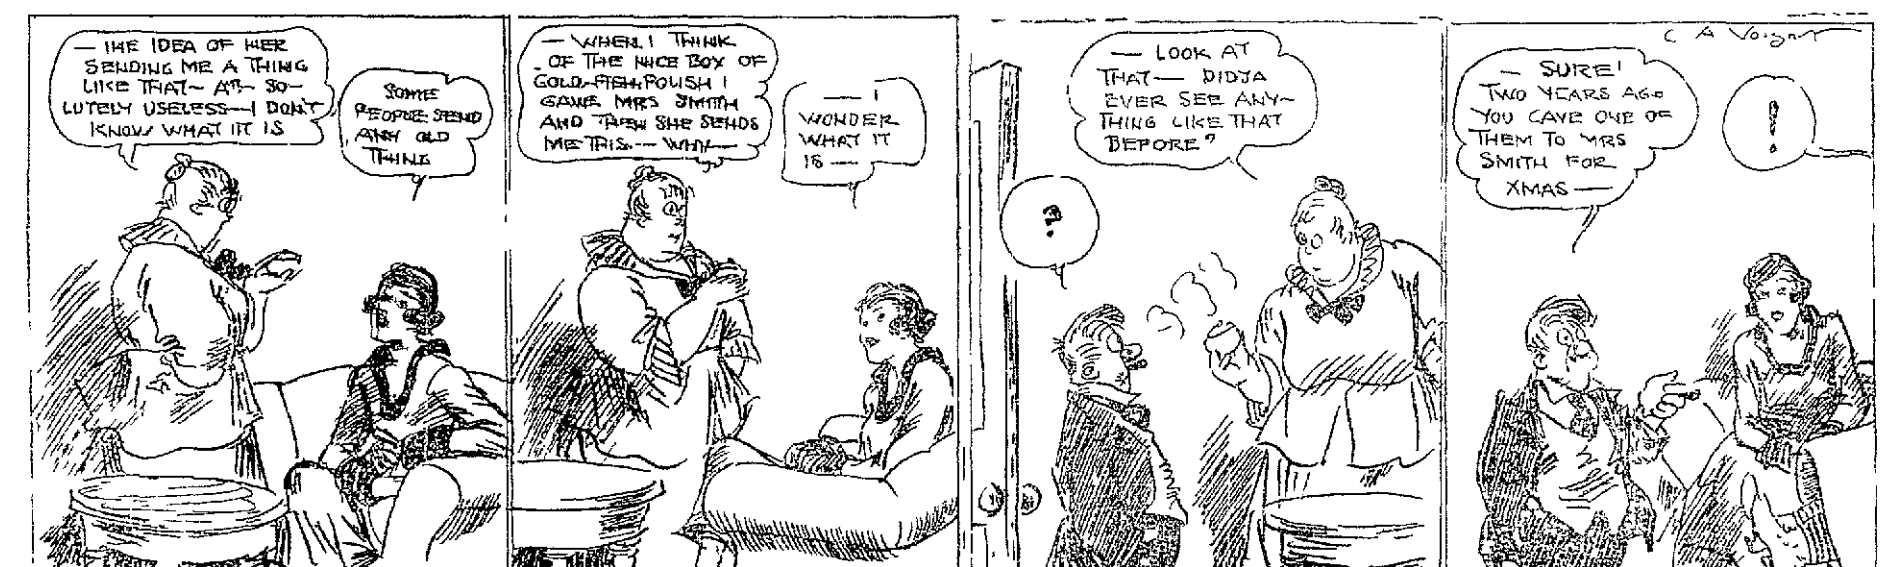

After war fashions will give us a lot of new things in many endeavors and it will bring new things into professional baseball too. Take the idea of Dr. Charles H. Scrub, president of the San Francisco club of the Pacific coast league, an example. The doctor wants comedy and a little jazz in the game. Here's what he suggests:

If I have my way we will install a little jazz into baseball; out this way next season I want men like Nick Altrock, Germany Schaefer and young Sawyer real baseball comedians, in the league to put a little life into the sport. If I can I will get one and possibly two of these men for the local club to do utility roles and furnish some fun for the fans. The games here last year were too dead. I want a fighting ball club and a noisy one.
